Dum vastos Adriae fluctus – Jacquet de Mantua (1483-1559)
For such a significant composer, there is remarkably little known about the life of Josquin des Prez. From his year of birth (the scholarly consensus is c. 1450/55), to his nationality (probably French, but he might have been born in Hainaut in modern-day Belgium), to his surname (presented in legal documents as Lebloitte or des Prez but also rendered variously in French, Italianate and Latin forms), Josquin’s origins remain enigmatic. What is certain, however, is that he became a hugely influential musician and central figure in the Franco-Flemish school of polyphonic vocal music. One reliably recorded detail is the date of Josquin’s death on 27 August 1521.

In this concert Stile Antico bring together some of Josquin’s most sublime works, commemorating 500 years since the composer’s death and celebrating the release of their magnificent new CD The Golden Renaissance: Josquin des Prez.

The first fifty years of Josquin’s career as a singer, cleric and composer are difficult to unravel. The earliest potential record of his training is a reference to a choirboy named ‘Gossequin de condet’ in 1466 at St Géry Cambrai in northern France. From here, his career can be traced with more certainty to a position singing in the chapel of the Duke of Anjou in Aix-en-Provence in 1477, then possible stints working for King Louis XI of France, the powerful Milanese Sforza family and the Duke of Ferrara, before joining the choir of the papal chapel in Rome in 1489. The details may be blurred, but Josquin clearly forged a highly successful career, travelling freely in the employment of Europe’s major families in France, Belgium, Italy and perhaps even in the royal chapel of Hungary.

From 1502 onwards, Josquin’s fame as a composer spread rapidly thanks to the technology of the printing press. The pioneering music printer Ottaviano Petrucci published three volumes of Josquin’s mass-settings, starting with Misse Josquin in 1502, which allowed Josquin to be recognised as a leading voice of his generation, both during his lifetime and in posterity.

This programme combines the three major strands of Josquin’s oeuvre: masses, motets, and secular songs in the French chanson and Italian frottola styles. Nestled between movements from the Missa Pange lingua, we hear exquisite examples of his motets, three of his secular songs, and two works written in tribute after his death, demonstrating the great influence Josquin had on his contemporaries.
The Missa Pange lingua was written in Condé-sur-l’Escaut around 1514 and exemplifies the paraphrase style of mass-setting, one of a host of compositional techniques employed by Josquin in his numerous masses. In the Missa Pange lingua he ‘paraphrases’ an existing Corpus Christi hymn by Thomas Aquinas through quoting the hymn and freely elaborating on it to build a complex and imaginative polyphonic mass.

Josquin’s compositional style was shaped by his experiences of Italian sacred and secular music, as well as by his seniors in the Franco-Flemish school including Johannes Ockeghem. It is possible that Josquin studied counterpoint under Ockeghem and it is evident that he deeply admired the older composer; when Ockeghem died in 1497 Josquin wrote a lamentation in his honour. In Josquin’s motets we hear the development of his polyphonic style, ranging from the relative simplicity of his four-voice Ave Maria...Virgo serena – his earliest dateable motet – to the cascading luminosity of Inviolata, integra et casta es and haunting insistence of the chant motif in the five-voice Salve Regina – both of which were first published around the time of Josquin’s death.

The secular side of Josquin is represented here by the two sorrowful chansons Vivrai je tousjours and Mille regretz together with the playful frottola El grillo. These three pieces display the versatility and inventiveness associated with Josquin, but they also share a question-mark of disputed authorship. In the wake of Josquin’s popularity, it suited the commercial interests of sixteenth century composers and publishers to attribute and link their pieces to his already-established name. During recent decades there has been a fantastic resurgence of interest in the life and works of Josquin. This new attention has had the double-edged effect of bringing his music to ever-increasing modern audiences, but also robbing his canon of key works as scholars apply greater scrutiny to the historical evidence of their authorship. Nonetheless, these pieces collectively capture the eminent virtuosity of Josquin’s style and reputation.

After Josquin died in 1521, three of his younger contemporaries composed laments in his honour and these were collated in a 1545 publication alongside a selection of Josquin’s chansons. O mors inevitabilis by Hieronymus Vinders lauds Josquin’s sacred works, celebrating him as a composer who ‘through music, adorned the church’ (‘per harmonium illustravit ecclesiam’). Jacquet de Mantua’s Dum vastos Adriae fluctus is a more comprehensive homage, quoting both text and music from five of Josquin’s motets including Inviolata, integra et casta es and Salve Regina. The third lament was by Nicolas Gombert, who was strongly influenced by Josquin and helped develop Renaissance polyphony towards its culmination in the music of Giovanni Pierluigi da Palestrina.

The trademarks of Josquin des Prez’s legacy include the dexterity of expression he applied to the techniques of polyphonic writing, adapting readily to the nuances of different texts. As Martin Luther observed, “He is the master of the notes. They must do as he wills; as for the other composers, they have to do as the notes will.”
Ave Maria gratia plena,
Dominus tecum, Virgo serena.
Ave cujus conceptio,
solemini plena gaudio
Caelestia, terrestria, nova replet laetitia.
Ave, cujus nativitas nostra fuit solemnitas,
Ut lucifer lux oriens verum solem praeveniens.

Ave pia humilitas, sine viro fecunditas,
Cujus annunciatio nostra fuit salvatio.
Ave vera virginitas, immaculata castitas,
Cujus purificatio nostra fuit purgatio.
Ave, praecelara omnibus angelicis virtutibus,
Cujus fuit assumptio nostra glorificatio.
O Mater Dei, memento mei. Amen.

(Anon.)

Kyrie eleison
Christe eleison
Kyrie eleison.

(Mass Ordinary)

Vivrai je toujours en telle paine
Et de misere estre rempi?
Si vous consideres ceste paine
Mes desir sera accompli.
En humilite je vous supplie:
Chantes vostre bon plaisir.

(Anon.)

Hail Mary, full of grace,
the Lord is with you, fair virgin.
Hail to you, whose conception,
full of holy joy,
fills heaven and earth with new rejoicing.
Hail to you, whose birth we celebrated,
like the day-star rising, foretelling the true sun.
Hail, holy and humble one, fruitful without a man,
you whose annunciation was our salvation.
Hail, true virginity, spotless chastity,
whose purification cleansed us also.
Hail to you who excel in all the angelic virtues,
you whose assumption glorified us also.
O Mother of God, remember me. Amen.

Lord, have mercy
Christ, have mercy
Lord, have mercy

Shall I always live in such pain and be filled with misery?
If you acknowledge this pain my desire will be satisfied.
Humbly I beg you sing your needs.
El Grillo è buon cantore
Che tiene longo verso.
Dalle beve grillo canta.
Ma non fa come gli altri uccelli,
Come lì han cantato un poco,
Van de fatto in altro loco
Sempre el grillo sta pur saldo,
Quando la maggior el caldo
Alhor canta sol per amore.

(Anon.)

Inviolata, integra et casta es Maria:
Quae es effecta fulgida caeli porta.
O Mater alma Christi carissima:
Suscite pia laudum praeconia.
Te nunc flagitant devota corda et ora:
Nostra ut pura pectora sint et corpora.
Tua per precata dulcisima:
Nobis concedas veniam per saecula.
O benigna! O Regina! O Maria!
Quae sola inviolata permansisti.

(Sequence hymn for Candlemas)

Gloria in excelsis Deo, et in terra pax hominibus bonae voluntatis.
Laudamus te, benedicimus te, adoramus te,
gratias agimus tibi propter magnam gloriam tuam.
Domine Deus, Rex caelestis, Deus Pater omnipotens.
Domine Fili unigenite, Jesu Christe.
Domine Deus, Agnus Dei, Filius Patris.
Qui tollis peccata mundi, miserere nobis.

Qui tollis peccata mundi, suscipe deprecationem nostram.
Qui sedes ad dexteram Patris, miserere nobis.
Quoniam tu solus Sanctus.
Tu solus Dominus.
Tu solus altissimus, Jesu Christe.
Cum Sancto Spiritu, in gloria Dei Patris.
Amen.

(Mass Ordinary)
Mille regretz de vous abandonner, et d’eslonger vostre fache amoureuse. J’ay si grand dueil et peine douloureuse, qu’on me verra brief mes jours definer.

(Jean Lemaire de Belges)

Salve Regina, Mater misericordiae, Vita, dulcedo, et spes nostra, Salve! Ad te clamamus, exsules filii Hevae, Ad te suspiramus, gementes et flentes, In hac lacrimarum valle.

(Compline Antiphon)

O mors inevitabilis, mors amara, mors cruelis, Josquin des Prez dum necasti, illum nobis abstulisti qui suam per harmoniam illustravit ecclesiam. Propterea tu musice, dic, requiescat in pace.

(Cantus firmus
Requiem aeternam dona ei Domine, et lux perpetua luceat ei.

(Anon.)

Agnus Dei, qui tollis peccata mundi, miserere nobis. Agnus Dei, qui tollis peccata mundi, miserere nobis. Agnus Dei, qui tollis peccata mundi, dona nobis pacem.

(Mass Ordinary)
While Jacchus wondered at the vast waves of the Adriatic and the rage of the furious whirlpool and the waters churned up from the sea-bed, and Scylla, and the swift-moving sandbanks and monsters unknown to any age, he sang this learned song, in an antique style, his white temples bound with a vine frond:

Muses, let us recount Josquin’s ancient loves, whose commands the ruler of great Olympus executed, beyond the eternal course and governance of the world, while the mother stood pitying and, remaining inviolate, wept with graceful tears for her son, slain by an unjust judgement.

Hail, O most holy Queen, and you, highest God, have pity, to whom each year I shall heap up the altars with a calf and regular gifts. He had spoken. The clear-voiced reeds related everything and the river Mincius with his clear waters nodded approval.

Stile Antico is firmly established as one of the world’s most accomplished and innovative vocal ensembles. Working without a conductor, its twelve members have thrilled audiences on four continents with their fresh, vibrant and moving performances of Renaissance polyphony. Its bestselling recordings have earned accolades including the Gramophone Award for Early Music, Diapason d’or de l’année, Edison Klassiek Award, and Preis der deutschen Schallplattenkritik. The group has received three Grammy® nominations, and performed live at the 60th Grammy® Awards at Madison Square Garden.

Based in London, Stile Antico has appeared at many of the world’s most prestigious venues and festivals. The group enjoys a particularly close association with Wigmore Hall, and has performed at the BBC Proms, Buckingham Palace, Amsterdam Concertgebouw, the Palais des Beaux-Arts, Cité de la Musique, Luxembourg Philharmonie, and Leipzig Gewandhaus. Stile Antico is frequently invited to appear at Europe’s leading festivals: highlights include the Antwerp, Bruges, Utrecht and York Early Music Festivals, the Lucerne Easter Festival and the Schleswig-Holstein Music Festival.

During the COVID-19 pandemic, Stile Antico has thrown its energy into digital projects, producing a ‘virtual choir’ recording of Tallis’ Spem in Alium, a music film to mark the 400th anniversary of the Mayflower voyage, and a series of lecture-recitals, Sundays with Stile, as well as giving live-streamed concerts from Wigmore Hall and the York Festival. In early 2021, the group will give further streamed concerts for Boston Early Music Festival, Live From London, and St Martin-in-the-Fields, and release its first recording for Decca Classics, marking 500 years since the death of Josquin.
Our thanks to The National Lottery Heritage Fund, for supporting the Fresh Horizons concert series at St Martin-in-the-Fields.
